icction originally enjoyed by father Adam. Additionally these will have the special guidance and instruction of Messlah (Head and members) in all the affairs of mankind. Thus as the Master said, speaking of that time. 'Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and the prophets in the Kingdom' (Luke xiii. 28).

God's kingdom will be represented in the earth by Israel—especially by these saintly men of Israel, resurrected perfect, who will be the special appointees and representatives of the glorified Messiah's rule. As it is written, instead of thy fathers (the ancient saintly ones were styled "the fathers." as Jesus was styled the son of Abraham and David) shall be thy children, whom thou mayest make princes in all the earth (Psalm xiv, 16). These princes, acting under and continually in contact with the spiritual kingdom and rulers styled in the Scrintures. "the goval priesthood" will

O, House of Jacob, Come!

We have already noted that this prophecy belongs to natural Israel and not to spiritual Israel. As the first verse declares, it concerns Judah and Jerusalem. By the time this prophecy will have begun to be fulfilled, spirtual Israel will be beyond the vale. It is in full harmony with this that we read in the fifth verse, "O house of Jacob, Come ye and let us walk in the light of the Lord." This is particularly the time when this message to natural Israel should go forth. We understand the scriptures to teach that during the next few years the Lord will have speial dealings with Israel in connection with this call. He will point out to them the way of rightcousness and the great privleges that are theirs as a people, because of divine promises to their fathers. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, etc. But only those who respond by turning to the light of God's Word to walk in it will be in the proper condition of heart and obedience to promptly get the blessing at the beginning of Messiah's reign. Those most prompt to respond will get the greater blessing.

Verses 6-10 portray some of the reasons why God's favor has been withdrawn for a time from natural Israel—aside from the fact that His special favor was for the time to be given to spiritual Israel. Then follows a description of the time of trouble, in which present institutions will succumb, to be followed by Messiah's empire. Let us read some of these verses and note their applicability to our day and the correspondence between these statements and very similar pronouncements in the Book of Revelation, applicable also to the time to which we are living. We will quote and parameters are some of the server of the proper of the time to the time to the time to which we are living. We will quote and parameters are the server of the proper of the server o theless, as the world shall come to appreciate the new order of things all nations shall flow unto it. Flow up to it-contrary to the downwardness of fallen human nature. It will make manifest such wonderful rewards for righteousness and obedience to sod and it will make manifest the stripes that must attend all willful diobedience to the divine arrangement that the Scripture will be fulfilled which declares that when the judgments of the Lord are abroad in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness (Isaiah xxvi. 9). Humanity for six thousand years has been learning "the exceeding sinfulness with history realizes the truthfulness of all this. It some of us have hoped that the general education of the masses and the general enlightenment of the race would abolish sin and selfishness and demonstrate the truthfulness of the proverb. "Henesty is the best policy," we are willing to confess that this has been a mistake. We perceive that the greater with a wisdom and intelligence granted to a selfish mind and heart the greater will be that the greater will be chapter.

Every Man Against His Neighbor.

As a consequence, the world is losing confidence in itself. All, whether politicians or judges or governors, steat or small, of one party or another, of one mationality or another—all are accused of being tarred with the same stick of selfishness. The Bible clearly indicates this distrust is not without reason and that the great time of trouble soon to go comidence. The Bible's description of the matter briefly summed up is Every man shall be against his neighbor (Zechariah vill. 16, xiv., 13). It will be the direct result of this loss of confidence. Hiding in Rocks and Caves.

Hiding in Rocks and Caves.

Those in distress and perplexity will in that time of trouble dee to the holes and the rocks and the caves of earth for fear. As Revelation (vi., 16) expresses it, they shall call to the rocks. Fall on us and hide us from the face of him that sitteth upon the throne. We are not to understand this more literally than its context. It does not signify that people will be so feolish as to literally pray for rocks to fall upon them, when they could more easily destroy their lives in another way. The thought is the very contrary of this—that they desire protection, shielding, hiding, covering from the trouble of the coming day of the Lord. These shelters of the rocks and caves of the earth symbolically represent the attempted protection of human organizations—insurance companies, secret societies, etc. But none of these which is coming—which will be world—wide and involve every earthly thing and interest, religious and secular, financial and political.

This will take place when the glory of the Lord and his majesty are manifested in connection with his standing up to assume command of the world and when "He will shake terribly the earth [moclety], that everything contrary to righteousness and holiness may be unjooted and overthrown. St. Paul pictures that the only thing that will not be shaken will be whatever is in harmony with God's kingdom of righteousness (Heis vit., 28-29).

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE WORLD

Marks Epoch in Reform

Marks Epoch in Beform.

When the New York workmen's compensation act was passed it was predicted that other states would soon pass a similar law. Five other states have already appointed commissions, who are preparing legislation along these lines. The New York law went into effect on September 1 and it probably marks an epoch in liability insurance as well as in social and industrial reform. It sweeps away the statutory defenses usually relied upon by employers to relieve them of liability for injuries sustained by their employes, and puts liability insurance upon an entirely new basis.

In view of the widespread interest in workmen's compensation legislation in the various states the experience of Great Britain, upon which the New York law is based is of interest and value. One of the unlooked for results of compulsory compensation has been to put a distinct handican upon old men in the way of securing employment. Their advanced age has made them more susceptible to sickness and accident, and in consequence many large employers of labor are refusing to take on workmen above a certain age. To meet this contingency the government now proposes an amendment to the act of 1906 by permitting workmen over 60 years of age or those who are physically infirm to enter into special agreements with their employers in respect to the compensation they shall receive in case of disabling injuries.

One of the political parties of Utah has, through its platform, placed itself on record as favoring "a workmen's compensation act," and it is said that the others to follow will adopt a similar plank.

Local insurance men regret the action of the state board of examiners in declining to appropriate an amount necessary to cover the expenses of a representative from Utah to the national convention of insurance commissioners. sentative from Utah to the national convention of insurance commissioners, which convenes in Mobile, Ala. on the 27th inst. It is generally believed that this meeting will be the most important one in years, coming, as it does, at a time when questions of vast importance to the insurance world are to be considered, and upon which the insurance departments throughout the country should be well informed. From advices to hand it would appear that all the other states will be duly represented, the only exception being Utah.

Peculiar Cause of Death.

The lowa State Traveling Men's association has been made defendant in the courts at Polk county, lowa, by Mrs. Lottle Vernon, who seeks to recover $5000 on an accident policy carried on the life of her husband in the defendant company. In her complaint Mrs. Vernon alleges that her husband went into a Turkish bath room and turned himself over to a masseur. The "rubber" manipulated Vernon's leg until he had produced an abrasion. This became infected and Vernon died from blood-poisoning. The company refused to pay the amount of the policy claiming that the man's death was direct result of an accident.

tive committee. Both these gentlemen were taken by surprise when informed of the action of the convention, and are being congratulated upon all sides. They are highly pleased over the result, not so much on account of the personal honor involved, but for the recognition given the Utah association, which now becomes an important factor in the national organization.

Home From Life Convention.

Joseph V. Smith, secretary of the Utah Association of Life Underwriters, accompanied by his little daughter, Irene, returned on Saturday from Detroit, Mich., where he had been in attendance at the twenty-first annual convention of life men. Speaking of the convention, Mr. Smith says that it was the best attended of any yet held. The meetings were full of interest and the addresses of Charles Jerome Edwards, John W. Whittington, high Chnimers and Elbert Hubbard, he declares, were brimful of good things and worth going many miles to listen to. One thing regretted by Mr. Smith was the fact that Utah did not enter the prize essay contest. He says Seattle, Denver, San Francisco and other western cities made a creditable showing in this contenter.

Chicago was chosen as the place for the next convention and Henry J. Powell of Louisville, Ky., was elected president and N. D. Sills of Richmond, Va., secretary.

Before returning home Mr. Smith and daughter visited Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other places of interest.
